Finances at the East

The impending financial revolution in the East is exciting great attention at the hands of all commercial writers and from the mass of material before us we clip the following from the monetary column of the Philadelphia Ledger

The impression is very general among business men that there is to be a financial crisis but there is seemingly much uncertainty as to how it is to come about. There is also some difference of opinion as to whether the distrust of the future arises from apprehension of political differences threatening the stability of the Government or from some undefined financial trouble. Of the former we do not speak here. Touching a money crisis, the record of the past is uniform on one point and that is that an expanded currency and an immense load of debt has been invariably followed by a financial crisis, more or less severe; and it is known that the currency of the country is more expanded now than ever before and the funded debt of the nation, States cities companies etc incomparably greater. Taking the past as a criterion for the present and the future it seems to many quite impossible for the country to step from the stilts on which it is tottering to terra firma without a tumble—perhaps prostration. But there is a difference now from what has characterized any previous expansion. The debt of the country is mainly due from the nation, that is everybody, according to what he is worth is liable for it. The tax payers except the little owed abroad owe it mostly to themselves, and it is paid and received in sums so small as to be scarcely felt. A financial revulsion can scarcely come from the national debt—certainly not with the prostrating consequences to all business that were experienced in the years 1837 and 1857. The debts were largely between individuals—merchants and merchants clerks gave up their legitimate pursuits almost entirely to the negotiation of bills receivable which were not based on goods sold and delivered, or other property the product of labor and enterprise but on notes made by supposed solvent parties at a fixed percentage for indorsement which were hawked through the streets at a discount of from one to three per cent per month. Mercantile and manufacturing interests were for the time abandoned for that of banking. The business men of almost all the large cities were engaged in discounting paper. Credit and kiting, in their worst term ruled rampant. Each big house and firm was resting on his neighbor and little of value could be found among them all. Of course the banks were involved in this same business. They caught the infection of the hour and were loaned over head and ears with the insecure because baseless evidence of exchangeable values. There was little value in them and when the fact was tested by forcing one house or one bank to payment the whole fabric toppled over, with ruin and disaster to all in any way involved in them. Business of every character was prostrated and labor being unemployed, great distress pervaded every walk of life. But there peculiarities of the previous revulsions named do not characterize the present time. The banks, it is known have discounted most largely to the Government—comparatively little to individuals. When the Government pays the banks the banks can pay what they owe the more especially as they are exempted from meeting their paper liabilities except with paper. The apprehension however daily strengthening, that there is trouble in the future, is tending somewhat to produce the thing. Consumers in the hope of buying at lower prices when the crisis comes, halt in their purchases. This leaves the shelves of the stores of the retailers and jobbers loaded with goods, to carry which rather than reduce prices, they are resorting to loans at banks and elsewhere thus increasing individual indebtedness, one of the causes of greatest suffering in past periods of distrust. If men in trade would act rationally and yield to a first loss by such a decline in price as would enable them to avoid debt and maintain their former status of cash dealers, they would much more certainly stave off financial trouble. It is this attempt to hold up prices by manufactures and those holding heavy stocks, that has in it most of all the trouble that endangers the future. Business men in carrying large stocks too often overlook the interests on their capital that like a moth is silently eating out their substance.

AN UNLUCKY MAN.—The Presque Isle Sunrise publishes the following autobiography of "a very unfortunate man."

"In 1812, at twenty three years of age, married a widow with four children. Rented a farm for three years at $150 a year. In 1814 bought a farm fifty miles up the river for $1200. Lived on it three cold seasons 1814 '15 and 16. Wheat covered with snow tenth day of June. Sold farm. Took goods from the St John to the St Lawrence waters. Sold goods for timber. In the spring no sale for timber. Failures in England. No shipping came out. Sold 200 tons on three months' credit. Man bankrupt. One raft went to sea in a storm. 200 tons left. No sale. This was in 1817. Turned my back upon it and have not seen it since. Lived in Robinston five years. Moved to Brighton, N B with wife two daughters and $100. Bought a farm lived on it three years. Sold in 1826 and came to Bridgewater Maine. Began in the woods. Cleared fifty acres and lived on it eight years. Did not own soil. Pay for soil called for. Could not pay. Sold possession for $300. Took a horse for $120. Broke his neck helping a load for Government to Fort Fairfield. Got cheated out of the rest. Cut the first bush in Westfield nineteen miles in the woods. Fed hungry men's horses seventeen years. Paid for my farm, got a deed lent my name which swung my farm. Lost my wife. Began with nothing and held my own first rate. Almost crazy, sixty seven years old. Came to Presque Isle took a new farm and married a new wife. Have been on five new farms. Have raised and helped five families of children. Have buried a wife and five children am now in my seventy eighth year have swung a scythe sixty three years and extend an invitation to any man who has mowed sixty three years to come and mow me a race for a gallon of punch."

He signs himself "John Thorncraft." He certainly has had a thorny path thus far on his journey.

AUCTION OF LADIES.—It is well known that an auction of unmarried ladies used to take place annually in Babylon. "In every district they assemble on a certain day of every year all the virgins of marriageable age. The most beautiful was put up, and the man who bid the largest sum of money gained possession of her. The second in personal appearance followed and the bidders gratified themselves with handsome wives according to the depth of their purses. But alas! it seems that there were in Babylon some ladies for which no money was likely to be offered, yet these also were to be disposed of so provident were the Babylonians. When all the beautiful virgins were sold the crier ordered the most deformed to stand up and after he had openly demanded who would marry her for a small sum she was at length adjudged to the man who would be satisfied with the least and in this manner the money arising from the sale of the handsome served as a portion to those who were either of disagreeable looks or that had any imperfection. This custom prevailed about three hundred years before Christ.

ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN.—A young lady the other day in the course of a lecture (after the manner of Miss Anna E. Dickinson) said: "Get married young man and be quick about it too. Don't wait for the Millennium hoping that the girls may turn to angels before you trust yourself with one of them. A pretty thing, you'd be along side an angel wouldn't you you brute? Don't wait another day but right now—this very night ask a neat industrious girl to go partnership with you to clear your pathway of thorns, and plant it with flowers."

The Hudson's Bay Company issued their annual report last month. The project of colonizing the southern portion of Prince Rupert's Land has been negatived by the majority of the shareholders. The business of the Company is somewhat depressed and the yield of skins materially diminished. No offer has yet been made on the part of the Government of Canada to purchase any portion of the rights or territory of this Company.

POLAND—A HORRIBLE STATE OF AFFAIRS.—The Courrier des Etats Unis publishes some extracts from La Presse a portion of which we give

A young Russian officer arrived at Wilna with dispatches for Mouravieff. "Tell me," said the General to him, "are you armed? If not, take this," handing him a pistol. "Shoot the first man you meet on the street. You will be sure to have killed an enemy of Russia." The officer dined with the General's staff and their friends. The party was large, and wine was drank freely. After dinner the officer left with four comrades. "You do not ask," said one of them, "how we amuse ourselves after drinking. Come, and you will see." They walked on, and presently reached a large shed, from which a horrible stench issued. By the light of a lantern which was placed on a hogshead the officer distinguished 100 corpses of young men almost all clad in garments of persons in easy circumstances. They were thrown together indiscriminately cut or shot, or with broken skulls. All had their wrists tied. They were Polish prisoners, who had been assassinated by the officers of General Mouravieff's staff after leaving the table. This is the amusement at Wilna. On one occasion a governor was attacked on the street by a young man with light hair. By order of Mouravieff all the men with light hair were arrested. As each one was brought forward Mouravieff asked the Governor if this was the man. "I only know," he replied, "that he was a man with light hair." "Hang this one," said the General. Six men were hanged. The seventh declared he was the guilty person. A poor widow applied, on her knees, to Mouravieff for pardon for her son. He was very young, and had been dragged, she said into insurrection. "Come to morrow," said Mouravieff "you shall have him." She came. Mouravieff kept his word, but he had hanged him.

COMPUTATION OF THE VALUE OF COINS.—In reference to the value of exchange which puzzles so many persons we print the subjoined

In England 22 ounces of pure gold are mixed with 2 ounces of alloy, this is called 22 carats fine, and is valued at £3 17s , 10d, 2 gr an ounce

In the United States 90 ounces of pure gold are mixed with 10 ounces of alloy of no value, 100 ounces of coin is worth $1,860 45 one ounce of coin $18 60

One ounce of pure gold, 1,005 fine, is coined into $20 16 100

A sovereign of England (new) weighs 5 dwts , 3gr (worn ones not so much) and passes for a pound

By the above statement you may compute the intrinsic value of a sovereign or a pound. By the help of a little arithmetic you will find that a pound sterling is $8 86c 3 mills and a little over

Less than one hundred years since, one of the States passed a law that if any one owed twenty eight shillings he should be allowed to settle it with a guinea, which was called 21 shillings, and weighed 5 dwts 9 grains

Since then the British mint changed coinage, and make sovereigns of 29 shillings

21 sovereigns go for 30 guineas. The 21 sovereigns contain more pure gold than 21 guineas by several shillings value.

The United States (1803) made eagles with the captor head weighing 11 dwts 6 grains 11 12 fine $10, they were then more valuable than silver in 1803 Congress made them a tender for $10 65, and made a new coinage with the hair curled, 8 10 fine, which are the eagles that people now talk about but do not often see

And by the changes of the coinage of the two nations you may see why a pound was once called $4 44 and now $4 80@4 85. New pounds are worth $4 86 38 100, if not worn

AMERICA IN MINIATURE.—A great national park is to be established in Washington. A correspondent says that it is proposed to make the park a "working model of the United States—to delineate, if not to reproduce in miniature, the topography of the continent—to set Huron and Ontario in reduced scale upon a living map some two miles long, not in water colors, but in the element itself—to lead a toy Mississippi from its baby nursery in the Rocky mountains, of real rock, through a little continent to a small Gulf of Mexico. The St Lawrence and the Colorado, and all other great rivers are to be represented by mimic streams, and without intending any allusion to the exclusion of the States lately in rebellion all the States and Territories are to be represented preserving their relative position and proportion. It is proposed that museums shall be erected upon each of these little representative tracts, and that the States and citizens shall be invited to contribute to their cabinets specimens of the natural and artificial production of the States represented."

This is a grand scheme and will require considerable ingenuity and labor to carry it out. It would be altogether unique and a great addition to the attractions of the Capital

A STORY OF HORROR.—The readers of the San Francisco press will remember the name of Reese Jenkins, an inveterate wife whipper and general blackguard who used to figure almost daily before the Police Court. A few weeks since Reese Jenkins Jr a boy of some eight years of age, was arrested for a petty offense and, through the intervention of some humane persons sent to the Orphan Asylum instead of to the Industrial School. The boy ran away and was re arrested and to day we saw his poor distressed haggard looking mother in the Calaboose whither she had gone to see him. She held a babe in her arms, and a gentleman noticing that the infant was blind in one eye asked her how the sight was lost. She replied "Her father stuck a fork in it and put it out in a fit of drunken rage." A sentiment of horror was expressed by the bystanders and one of them said "He ought to be burned alive." The poor woman replied with a sigh "He has gone to his last account now but before he died he blinded the other one also and added by way of explanation he caught it up in a fit of passion one day and spit tobacco juice into the tender thing's eyes until it went blind in its agony." Could Satan himself be guilty of more utter fiendishness than this?—Alta

A VALUABLE TREE.—A remarkable tree was brought to New York in the month of January 1866 from a Western State. It was a black walnut seventy feet long measuring 4 500 feet board measure but when cut into veneers it would be thirty times that making 135 000 feet which at twenty cents would be worth $27 000. The cost of cutting it and placing it in store for sale would be about $ 00. Black walnut for the last six years has been gradually taking the lead of mahogany and is worth as much now as mahogany was formerly. The figure most sought for at present is a stripe which seems to be formed by the saps casting dark and light shades alternately through the tree which when worked makes the most beautiful furniture that is manufactured

The beautiful gondolas belonging to the Doge's palace at Venice and among which was the one in which Napoleon I made his entry into that city have just been sold by the Austrian Government for a mere trifle to a Jew who intends it is asserted offering them for a moderate sum to the French Government in order that they may be placed in the Museum of the Louvre

The Right of Revolution

An attempt is often made to excuse and even to justify the late great revolt against the Government of the United States, on the plea that this movement was not ing more than an assertion of their right of revolution which belongs to every people Like the thousand other apologies offered for the secession movement this attempt to justify it will not bear examination What is the object of government? Our Declaration of Independence tells us that it is to secure to all men the right to life liberty and the pursuit of happiness We read a little further and it tells us that whenever any form of Government becomes destructive of these ends it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it This, then is the right of revolution This is is the ground on which revolution is justifiable The Declaration does not say that any set of men who do not like their government, though it has done them no wrong and has deprived them of no right which it is the object of government to secure, may abjure allegiance to that government and proceed to set up within its jurisdiction another which they fancy will suit them better There is no right of revolution where there is no cause for revolt. What constitutes sufficient cause has been shown by the great authority just cited But our rebels and their political friends interpret the matter differently They hold that any faction may, absolutely without cause other than their own discontent, assert the right of revolution and endeavor to maintain it by force of arms Than this claim nothing could be more preposterous Concede it and the bands of political society are cut asunder and there is neither peace nor security under any government

Therefore as the Southern people had been deprived of no rights under the Government, natural or political, they could not claim the right of revolution To attempt to justify what they have done by such an absurd pretense, is too ridiculous an effort for sane men to engage in

The Judiciary Committee

As the duty has been laid on the Judiciary Committee of the House of inquiring into the conduct of the President with a view of ascertaining whether he is guilty of any act for which he should be impeached and removed from office, it may be a matter of some interest to know what members compose that Committee Its Chairman is James F. Wilson of Iowa. The other members are George S. Boutwell of Massachusetts, Francis Thomas of Maryland, Thomas Williams of Pennsylvania, Frederick E Woodbridge of Vermont, Daniel Morris of New York, Andrew J Rogers of New Jersey, William Lawrence of Ohio and Burton C Cook of Illinois Eight of the members of the Committee are Unionists and one (Rogers) is a Democrat

"I say that the traitor has ceased to be a citizen, and in joining the rebellion has become a public enemy. He forfeited his right to vote with loyal men when he renounced his citizenship and sought to destroy our Government"—A Johnson in 1864.

In 1867 A Johnson vetoes the District suffrage bill because it disfranchises rebels We suppose his organ here will to morrow, with the usual flourish, again "defy any one to show where he has violated a single pledge on which he was elected."

A strong effort is making in the Washington Territory Legislature to push a Specific Contract Law through that body It is surmised, however, that the Council will kill the bill

A Southern Opinion

John Forsyth, editor of the Mobile Register, has a reputation of being one of the shrewdest of Southern politicians. The following remarkable article is from the Register of the 18th November:

The decision of the Northern people at the polls on the 6th of this month and in the month of September in favor of the radical party, its measures and its continuance in power, was, to the country and especially to the South, a great event It is one to open a new train of reflection in the thinking minds of the nation Is there anything that we can do that we have not done—always with honor—to meet the views of the dominant power in the North, and thereby put an end to military rule, freedmen's bureaus, disfranchisement, and all the dangers of further oppression and property confiscation which threaten, and at the same time restore to us our representation in the Government, and renew the tranquility and pacification of the whole country under the Constitution? These are questions which are engaging the attention of thinking men in various parts of the country Judge Reagan, of Texas, appears to have been the first public man on the Confederate side to foresee the present condition of things, and to anticipate the time, when, for the sake of over ruling considerations of self interest and self preservation, the South might be called upon to surrender still more of its traditional habitudes of thought and strongest prejudices. He wrote and published a letter to the Governor of Texas, while yet a Federal prisoner at Fort Warren, and has written another since his release on parole, to prove that national rehabilitation was not to be achieved or hoped for, until the negro question was forever placed beyond the pale of political discussion, by meeting the inevitable Northern demand to give to the black man all the rights and privileges which belong to a free citizen He argued that to that complexion the dispute must come at last, with or without our consent and co operation, and that it was the part of true wisdom to meet it at once, and thereby avert the perils that threaten, and assure a complete restoration of our position in the Government To this end, he proposes that the Southern States, of their own free will and accord, shall give to the blacks not universal but "impartial suffrage"—that is to say, suffrage on a qualified basis of property or intelligence, or both, and white suffrage to be founded on the same basis The perilous consequences of a contrary course are set before the people of Texas by Judge Reagan with great force, and they equally address themselves to the consideration of every Southern State

The Mobile organ copies a portion of Judge Reagan's last letter, and also a part of an article from the Chicago Times, and adds in regard to "impartial suffrage"

Our people and especially our legislators and public men had best put on their thinking caps and examine this important question in all its bearings of policy, duty and honor, and see whether they are potent enough to overcome the prejudices and sentiments which the South has cherished and entertained on this subject for generations As for approving of negro suffrage on its merits and as an abstract question, no man can who believes that this was intended to be "a white man's Government," and that the vice of the American system is already too greatly extended and that the evil would only be augmented by opening it to black voters But the question, unhappily does not come up in this way, It is presented as a choice of evils and complicated with considerations of vital moment to our rights, safety and liberties as a people This question is just looming up as a leading one of public policy, and we have felt it our duty to bring it forward at once for the calm and solemn reflection of the people Certainly if there is any thing that we can do in reason and honor to put an end to Southern impoverishment and political servitude, and to avert the dangers ahead and bring about a pacification of the Union it behooves us to do it

The Petersburg (Va) Express has deliberately arrived at the conclusion—and it doesn t care who knows it—that the United States Government is the most stupendous humbug and unprincipled government on the Globe Well, it has a right to think so, but while it holds this opinion it won t of course desire or expect, to be represented in such a government

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON D C Dec 3 1866

The Capital is lively again The contrast is very marked with the condition of things here a week ago Then the hotels and boarding houses were nearly empty and even street cars had few occupants Now the hotels are crowded and the streets are full It is an exquisite day, and a world of strangers (and citizens) are in the Capitol building or on their way towards it The excitement of the Congressional campaign is still lingering in society and though the doings of Congress to day are stupid—it being simply a first day of a second session—yet crowds have come out as if it were a great thing to see the Congress gathered together in its halls Nobody cares for the message—very few seem to care for anything that the President or his Cabinet members may say The report of McCulloch is read with interest but after all it really recommends nothing

The tone of the message is good enough perhaps but its recommendations are actually ridiculous Such is the feeling in Congress Here is this madcap in the White House after his reconstruction policy has been beaten before the people going back to the winter of 1860 61 and fishing up some of his crude plans when he was in the Senate Does he suppose that the people of this country will forget the fact that he offered some of those propositions as a promise to coax rebels back into Congress? Such is the fact and under his plan of electing a President he knew that Abraham Lincoln could never have been re elected (if there had been no war)—and the object of the proposed amendment was to tell the South Don t be in haste—all is not lost—I offer you an amendment which will prevent the election of any man hereafter who is inimical to the local interests of the South Mr Lincoln has got in by State majorities Take my plan and if the South is a unit no other northern man can again be elected!' It is not very probable that Congress will take such a plan—and from such a man To be frank, so violent are the feelings of Congress against this man that they will not take good plans from him Human nature is weak and though such strong aversion for the President may not be justifiable, yet it is a fact

The caucuses held by the Radical members have not resulted in anything Little has been said about impeaching the President and I think that the most Radical members admit that it would be a huge political blunder to proceed against the President It is better to let him alone, and if possible tie him up—hedge him about—prevent him from doing any more mischief than is absolutely necessary The most of the propositions offered the other night had reference to the President s base conduct in turning good Union men out of office for the sake of bad men and rebels The Evening Post (N Y) which, as you know is conservative, has a very sharp criticism on the President in its issue of Saturday on this very point It says that some time since since, Secretary McCulloch announced that no more removals should be made for the sake of political opinions Yet in spite of that announcement the Secretary or the President has just removed one of the most accomplished Internal Revenue officers in the city of New York He was a Union man, to be sure, but as an officer has no superior in the United States Who was put in his place? A miserable worthless fellow who is totally incompetent for the duties of the position and a rebel sympathizer in his politics! He was not even a war democrat during the war When the President has shown that he is base enough to do such things after election, who can blame Congress for stepping in to resist his acts? I hear that Senator Sherman says that he is in favor of prohibiting any officer of the Treasury from paying out a dollar to any man who has not been approved by the Senate and he would go so far as to make it a Penitentiary offense This feature of his proposed legislation, however, would do no good, for the President would pardon the offender! I give this bit of gossip, (about Sherman) to show what the feeling is upon the subject It is intense among Congressional circles and a great deal of the legislation of the winter will have reference to it

The National Intelligencer (the President's organ) is coming round to be a wonderful believer in moral suasion It is but a few weeks since it was threatening the lives of prominent radicals if they ventured to go South and advocate their doctrines See now how the same paper talks,

"After all, this is a Government of moral forces, not of coercion An agitation for an amendment to confer civil rights on the black man would induce inevitably that state of public opinion in the South that would render the amendment unnecessary, for it is but just that he should have civil rights, and in this free Government justice will in the end, triumph. So if we held that the negro ought to vote, we should far rather secure him the privilege by the agitation and discussion of the idea among those who lived with him and by their final voluntary adoption of it than to force it upon them against their will It is best that these changes, if they come at all, should come gradually"

This is the old slaveholders game. In the old times the Southern advocates stood almost a unit against emancipation, but as the war progressed they came down a peg or two and talked against immediate emancipation and in favor of gradual emancipation The Intelligencer is compelled to take a short step in advance—it cannot help it It says it does not object to free discussion of the subject, even by the negroes This is a great concession coming from such a quarter

The President is in a pitiable condition Who is there that stands honestly by him? The Copperheads denounce him behind his back They have made up their minds since election to kick him aside in a year or two They will neither run him as their candidate in 1868 nor permit him to dictate their candidate He is absolutely friendless this day Seward Welles, Randall, Stanton, and in fact all his admirers are insincere They all know he behaved like a silly fool all through the canvass There isn t one of them who hasn t said so pointedly Even Seward, when over his wine, remarked "if you will put a Tennessee tail or in the Presidential chair you needn t get mad when he plays the fool!" I hear he denied ever saying so—but he did and I know the man who heard him, and who will be willing to swear to it, if necessary, in open court He was a little "elevated" with champagne and might possibly have forgotten the fact when he was sober, though I doubt that

P S I had written thus far when a copy of the message came into my hands when lo and behold the proposed amendments were not there! As I knew that they were there a week ago of course I was surprised Upon making a little inquiry in quarters where I generally obtain the exact truth upon such matters I find that the first draft of the message contained the proposed amendments (as published in many of the papers—prominent among them being the plan to elect the President by popular vote) but upon discussion in Cabinet they were all stricken out In striking them out the President showed his wisdom, for the less he says about further amendments to the Constitution the better I let the first part of my letter stand—with this explanation

The message generally disappoints It is barely conciliatory in tone—but in the argument it does not abate a jot from the President's old position The feeling in the House is more intensely radical than in the Senate A dozen radical bills were introduced before the message came in—all looking to the President's action and providing for his being restrained in the future Schofield, of Penn, made this comment on the message "It has three heads—Copperhead—Sorehead—and Blockhead People are wondering who wrote the message—I need not say that he did not—after his foolish speeches But it is generally thought that the Attorney General—Stansbury—wrote the document It is generally admitted that it is well written.

The Senators from Oregon were in their seats at the opening—so was Mr Henderson, in the House He voted with Thad Stevens to postpone the reading of the message till to morrow

MORMON VIRTUE —The Salt Lake (Mormon) Telegraph winds up an article mainly devoted to an exposition of the profligacy of Gentile women with the following self glorification "We do have the vanity to believe sincerely and earnestly that our marriage doctrines are the purest and best on earth designed to rid a community of that most fearful of leprosies the social evil The social evil" alluded to is prostitution and the way the Mormons rid themselves of it is very simple They legalize the vice and make it a part of their religion We commend this plan to all Legislatures as the quickest way to get rid of that or any other evil

ENGLISH INCONSISTENCY —The threats of London journals to crush out the Fenian insurrection in Ireland by the most resolute and cruel measures afford another illustration of the uniform British policy—to counsel other nations to display extraordinary clemency to insurgents and to treat with unexampled harshness attempts to throw off the British yoke As a rule England favors revolutions everywhere except in her own dominions, and she overflows with mock sympathy for every people except those whose sufferings are inflicted by her own injustice and misrule

Our Olympia correspondent writes, (January 10th)

Gen McKinney, recently appointed Superintendent of Indian Affairs for this Territory vice W H Waterman removed arrived a few days ago, with his family and will enter immediately upon the discharge of his duties Hon Geo E Cole recently appointed Governor arrived on Tuesday last The Democracy immediately assumed high toned airs, collected their forces, and gathered huge supplies of gunpowder and whisky Mr Cole within two hours after arriving was sent up with his commission and demanded the office of Governor Pickering Not getting the office as expected the ardor of the copper gentleman became a little dampened for the time and the burning of powder was postponed Determined to have a new Governor at all hazards even without the office a little "strategy my boy" was set on foot So to day both branches of the Legislature passed resolutions recognizing Mr Cole as Governor and appointing a joint committee to wait upon him and inform him of their action Having made him Governor the Democracy are now, at this moment, firing their guns Governor Pickering has as yet failed to receive notification of his removal and made a request to the Legislature for a little time on that account This wise body of men, however could not wait and while some acknowledged it was but an act of courtesy yet it was not legal, and they would not do it In justice to some good Union men in the House, it must be said that they opposed this matter

ANOTHER NEW GUN —Herr Von Dreyse, the inventor of the needle gun inspired by his success to greater efforts of genius in the invention of killing tools, has invented a gun which a man can carry, which throws a distance of 1 500 paces with effect, and the ball at striking bounds into eight pieces which it is supposed will create a commotion in any well regulated body And still he is ambitious of more deadly inventions It is a queer thing in our philosophy that the man who invented a machine for more expeditiously and more mercifully taking the life of criminals, gained a bad fame, while the men who invent machines for more rapidly killing and more effectually mangling innocent, brave and patriotic men, are honored as benefactors

A man traveling upon the desert of Humboldt on the route to California, once passed a solitary wagon standing in the road without a team attached. Seeing a wretched lad nursing a starving baby, he asked him what was the matter 'Well, now, responded the youth "I guess I'm kinder streak! Old dad's drunk old woman's got the hystericks, brother Jim's been playing poker with two gamblers, sister Sal s down there a courtin an intire stranger, the team's clean gone out, the wagon s broke down it's twenty miles to the next water—I don t care a d—n if we never see California.'

There was not a loyal white man from South Carolina in the U S service during the war, while Virginia had 85 Georgia 147 Mississippi 315, Alabama 667, Florida 992 Texas 1275 Louisiana 2652 North Carolina 3224 Arkansas 5186 and Tennessee 14 559 The question is now whether these loyal Southerners have any rights which ex rebels are bound to respect?

NE PLUS ULTRA —KOHN & FISHEL are about selling off all their dry goods ladies shoes and everything in that line far below cost, and will hereafter keep nothing but the best and most stylish clothing manufactured being determined to be the first-class clothiers of Oregon

New Railroad Bills.—The telegraphic dispatches published in the papers of the 29th December stated that bills to aid railroad and telegraph lines from Portland to Astoria, and from Astoria to Steilacoom had been introduced in Congress. A few days later we printed an article on the subject from the San Francisco Bulletin and added some comments of our own. It appears by a later Bulletin that the bills were to aid, not railroads but wagon roads. So the telegraph, the Bulletin and we have each and severally been blowing off steam to no purpose whatever. So we are not to have a railroad direct to Astoria nor another from Astoria to Steilacoom nor Salem, nor yet to Tillamook! All that has been said was wind wasted. We wish we had our wind back again. But the Bulletin places the fault at the door of the telegraph—if anybody knows where that is and so do we. We shall not venture a remark on the wagon road bills for fear that to-morrow the telegraph may transmute the whole thing into a bill to declare the Astoria and Tillamook pack trail a post road, or something of that sort. The Bulletin last spoken of has the following in reference to the matter: We learn that the roads for which aid is asked are wagon roads instead of railroads; yet they are nevertheless enterprises of much importance. A telegraph line extends from this State through Oregon to Puget Sound. There is urgent need of a branch from Portland to Astoria to put the seaport in communication with the interior and also with San Francisco, whose steamships enter and depart from the Columbia river six times a month.

This much needed telegraph of about 75 miles, must pass through the densely timbered coast mountains where it can neither be built nor kept in repair without a wagon road along the line. The Senate bill proposes to donate to that use alternate sections of this mountain forest land, which never can be settled until costly roads are opened through it. Whenever railroads shall traverse the State a branch or extension may need to follow this same route to give Oregon, East Washington and Idaho a rail-connection with their sea-port. But the present project has no such aim.

The other bill provides for a wagon road from Astoria to Tillamook, 60 miles South, and not a railroad to Steilacoom 200 miles North. Tillamook is one of Oregon's finest valleys. Except where it is opened to sea it is walled in by mountains. On the streams which flow into the bay are beds of coal and the ores of several metals. Though an organized county and so near Astoria, it can only be reached by sea, and might as well be a distant island. It is proposed to connect it with Astoria by a wagon road through the mountains, and the Senate bill grants alternate sections of land along the line of the road. The great need of Oregon is improved communication by means of railroads and wagon roads between the producing valleys, the shipping ports and the mines. These will give her a better market for her products and attract emigration.

The Enterprise.—Bro Ireland and his carpet bag of the Oregon City Enterprise, whilom Local Editor of this paper came down yesterday on one steamboat and immediately called on us to pay their respects. To say that they were received with open arms would be drawing it mild. We took care of them during the evening and got them to bed without assistance. Ireland is the same genial fellow he always was, a little better dressed [illegible] and don't seem to be any prouder of his Enterprise than he can well afford to be; his carpet bag, though, from long use is getting rather dilapidated and unless some one presents him a new one soon we foresee that he will be obliged to carry his editorial baggage—a dirty shirt collar and a tooth brush—in his pocket. By the way, that carpet bag has a history. It was purchased years and years ago in Scotland, by another editor, and after having carried for years and years, the traditional editorial baggage was presented to Ireland, who has in turn carried in it for years and years, his editorial baggage. We respect that carpet bag and for its sake, if we have said anything offensive to Bro Ireland, we forgive him.

A Puff.—The local editor of this paper is in luck—we might say, big luck. We have not been presented with an "elegant suit" of clo's—though we wouldn't be surprised any day to be called on to suffer such an infliction—or have we received a cane of "unique formation," at the hands of anybody, either as a baton or as a 'sag pole.' What suits us better, is that we are made the happy recipient of an elegant meerschaum pipe from our [illegible] friend, Charley Cartwright, of Salem. Charley, your admiration is well bestowed, and so is your beautiful gift. Would we could puff it but in our heart, we'll also puff the donor—for a genuine brick. If there is one wish, Charley, that we devoutly wish for you more than another, it is that you may "strike ile."

Laid Up.—Freights from the Willamette valley having fallen off so that one steamer is sufficient to do the carrying between here and Oregon City, the Senator was yesterday withdrawn from the route and laid up at Oregon City. Biles says that Capt. Kellogg has quit in disgust though he (Kellogg) had run for several weeks. Somebody had presented him a new suit of clothes and he (Kellogg) was jealous of him (Biles) on account of his (Biles') better luck. We infer from what he (Biles) says that he (Kellogg) thinks there was some mistake about that new suit worn by him (Biles). This, however, is a matter which he (Kellogg) may settle with him (Biles). We are strictly neutral.

Smashed Up.—The Alert brought down yesterday the [illegible] of the cylinder of the wool picker belonging to the Woolen Mills at Oregon City. Yesterday morning some wool which had not been carefully sorted was being put through, when some obstruction went in, and smashed up things generally. Nearly half of the cylinder arms were broken, picking teeth were wrenched askew or torn out, and strong iron bars broken as though they had been pipe stems. We are told that the cylinder flew out of place and the operative had a narrow escape from being hit by the flying missiles. The broken machinery was brought down for repairs.

Since the Deluge.—During the latter part of December and the first part of the present month, the overland mails to Oregon were totally cut off by the deluges which have prevailed throughout the Sacramento valley. Within a few days, the delayed matter has begun to arrive here, showing very marked evidences of the hard road (physically speaking) which it has traveled. Soaked, [illegible] and gnawed by predatory rats and mice, it looks more dilapidated, we imagine, than any of the furniture which Noah discharged from his old scow on the top of Mt. Ararat.

[illegible] Officers.—The officers of Oregon Lodge No. 3 [illegible] at Oregon City were installed last Friday evening by R. W. Grand Master, Wm Morton, as follows: B. Lillard, N G; C O T. Williams, V G; A. J. Apperson, R S; N. W. Randall, P S; Fred, Charman, Treasurer. The appointed officers are: Thos Rowley, R S N G; C M. Kester, L S N G; E B Kelly, Warden; Wm. Marshall, Conductor; G B. Lark, R S S; L. L. Miller, L S S; Wm Vandervert, I G; C. Mowry, O G; J. W Ryan, R S V G; J. Ackerman, L S V G.

Report of a Robbery.—There was a report on the street, yesterday, of a robbery committed the night before at one of the hotels on North Front street. The report said that two of the lodgers at the house lost money by the operation. On further inquiry, we could find nobody who knew anything about the matter save upon rumor and the landlord of the hotel in question stated that nothing of the kind had occurred at his house. It is probable the report was a canard.

The [illegible] Troupe.—This talented company of minstrels did not perform last evening in consequence of the illness of Miss Soledad. They will give an entertainment to-night, however, at the Oro Fino. The programme is the best they have yet offered, and they perform what they advertise. On Friday and Saturday evenings they will play at Oregon City. The success they have met here is [illegible] introduction to our Oregon City friends.

High Tides.—We learn that several places on the coast were again visited with unusually high tides last week. The town of Oysterville on Shoalwater Bay suffered greatly, several buildings being more or less damaged. The road from the landing near Cape Disappointment to the fort was partly washed away. The tides were considerably higher than ever before known. We have not heard from other portions of the coast.

Not so much Capital.—A few days since, an item in the [illegible] about the incorporation of a company at Salem for the purpose of manufacturing linseed oil, stated the capital stock at $300,000 with ten per cent. paid. What we intended to say, was $30 000, but even this sum was too large, as we are informed by the President of the company, who writes that the capital stock is $6000 with 20 per cent now paid in.

New Wharf at Milwaukie.—The O S N Co's pile driver was taken to Milwaukie last week and is now engaged in driving piles for a new wharf south of, and attached to, the Standard Mills' wharf.

[illegible] Freights.—Per Senator Jan 14th—2 hf bbls and 6 boxes eggs, 1,193 sks flour, 250 sks oats, 127 sks bran.

Per Alert, same day 2,000 qr sks flour 200 boxes apples, 20 boxes, 4 sks dried apples, 1 bbl, 3 boxes eggs, 1 case woolen goods 57 sks feed, 2 bundles sacks 2 coops chickens, 1 piece machinery.

Sociable.—The Ladies' Sociable in the basement of the Presbyterian church will take place on Wednesday evening, the 16th, instead of Tuesday evening as heretofore.

A Ball.—It will be seen by advertisement in another column, that the Hibernian Benevolent Society will give a ball at the Oro Fino Hall next Monday night.

It is the Genuine Article.—Many of the people have been slow to believe that Barman Bros are really using Oregon City wrapping-paper but it is a fact. Packages of goods done up in Oregon paper are going from their store every day.

A child can operate a Grover & Baker Sewing Machine. It sews from two spools, makes a stitch stronger than that made by hand, and its simplicity is marvelous in comparison to its capacity. The elegant embroidery which is now so popular is all executed by this celebrated sewing machine. Wm. Currier & Co, agents, 111 Front street Portland.

Official Jokes.—Governor Sanders and Chief Justice Kellogg of Nebraska, were in Galesburg Illinois, lately, and in the morning attended Rev Mr Beecher's church. The Free Press says that as the sermon was upon the late elections and of a radical tone the Judge being a conservative, was not well pleased, while the Governor was delighted. The Judge afterwards turned the joke however, by saying that while he was somewhat uneasy, Governor Sanders left the church in a perfect rage—for Beecher prayed fervently for the Governors of all States and did not so much as notice the Governors of Territories.

Diamond Work

The Intellectual Observer, an English periodical has the following:

The first real improvement in the design of diamond work originated in Vienna, and from its very character led to new and more artistic development. It began in a parure of slender grass leaves from which were pendent small stars or dew drops, and its best feature was a conscientious desire to follow closely upon nature. For a long time the simple foliage, flowers and long grasses were the ruling models of diamond work in the Austrian capital. The [illegible] fashion soon spread from Vienna to Paris and thence through French and German workmen to London. At this time, what is technically called "thread setting" was little used in London. The English workman prided himself upon his grain setting [illegible] his work, whether leaf, flower or [illegible] ornament, was pared away on the edges leaving long round topped grains between and on the side facets of the stones. All ornaments alike were subjected to this treatment, which gave a rounded appearance to the work and destroyed all outline. This style of setting is called "cut down," from the manner in which it is effected, and the English man was proud of his cutting down. "Thread setting" on the contrary preserves a fine filet or line of silver on the outer edge of the portion of the leaf or flower, the sharp outline of which it is desired to preserve, and by a judicious use of the two methods an admirable degree of relief is given to the whole ornament.

The advance of the Viennese in their search for art in the footsteps of nature led to most important results. The simple grass leaves were succeeded by foliage of a more ornate character, flowers of most complex construction were made the prominent features in the tiara, the brooch, or the stomacher, till no object was considered too difficult for imitation in the plastic silver, to be afterwards encrusted with diamonds so as to leave little but a shell or skin of the original material to bind them together. It may truly be said that jewelry in its employment of the diamond chiefly, attained perfection in these floral ornaments. The taste of the draughtsman and the modeler and the skill of the workman were combined to produce them, and the result was the creation of works of true art. Many of the best specimens of this class of workmanship were made in London, but it must also be said, by foreign artisans, chiefly French and German.

The style of the present day is no longer the same, but the skill and the taste remain although scarcely employed advantageously. The fashion of the moment runs in favor of Arabesque or Byzantine interlaced work to which it would be very difficult to give a name, but which is effective in so far that it allows of the massing of stones in a rounded surface, broken up by narrow interstices and a few gems are made to produce the dazzling effect of many. Diamond work finds a further development in simple five-pointed stars, placed at intervals on an interlaced band."

A Disgusted Sprig of Chivalry.—The Fortress Monroe correspondence of the New York Herald contains the following:

Each day continues to bring numerous visitors to Jeff Davis. Among the latest reported arrivals are ex Commissioner Robert Ould and a niece of the State prisoner. It is a noticeable though hardly to be considered a curious fact that most of his visitors still speak of him as President Davis. Occasionally however, the use of this titular rank of Confederate times calls out a sharp as well as an unexpected and amusing rebuff. An instance occurred this morning, which I will relate.

"I wish to see President Davis," asked a new arrival of a volunteer officer whose office is outside the post. "Will you be kind enough to tell me where to apply for permission to see him?"

"There is no such person here, sir," answered the officer, "as President Davis."

"Is it possible!" rejoined the stranger, "I have come a long way to see him."

"Well, sir, you will find no such person here now," was the grave response.

"Has he been released on bail?"

"No."

"Paroled!"

"No."

"Pardoned?"

"No."

"He's not dead I hope," and this last question was most hesitatingly put, and with a most anxious look on the stranger's countenance.

"Not that I'm aware of," was the cool and unfeeling response.

"I can't understand you. I beg you will make yourself intelligible," implored rather than demanded the stranger.

"I will do so," replied the officer, and a gleam of hope began to light up the stranger's face. "There is a man named Jefferson Davis, a Government prisoner, confined in the fort. You can see him by going"—

"Thank you, sir. You need go no further. I will make my remaining inquiries elsewhere," and he strode away with an intensely irate air, giving the officer a parting look that would have accomplished his immediate demolition if such power lay in looks.

The Wealth of Ind.—A correspondent of the Alta California, writing in reference to opening of trade across the Pacific by the San Francisco and China line of steamships, has some paragraphs in relation to the great wealth of India, which we quote:

Hindostan is, without doubt, although it has been drained extensively, the richest country in the world. Traversed in every direction by railroads, which cost hundreds of millions of dollars, her fields of sugar, hemp, coffee, silk, cotton, rice, grain, justify the opinion that her greatness is only commencing to develop itself, and yet in that land there has been an awful famine lately. Indian speculators at the commencement of our rebellion called off the greater portion of the population from Eastern Bengal to plant cotton for the European markets, to the neglect of their rice fields, importing rice from abroad to feed their coolies. But the end of the rebellion broke down the cotton speculators, who would advance no more, thus throwing 2,000 000 men out of employment, who, though they had money, could not purchase rice for it, and famine and disease ravaged that part of India until assistance arrived from the others. As a people the Hindoos are honest, docile and intelligent, and resemble the white races in this manner more than other Indian nations.

Thus it will readily be seen by the intelligent merchant that from the ports and countries with which the new line of Pacific steamships will bring us into communication, we are on the threshold of a new and boundless trade, never before so fairly broached by the Western nations. Regular monthly communication with Hong Kong and Japan by such magnificent ocean palaces as the new steamers building in New York are to be, will soon cause new lines to be put upon the coast of India, connecting San Francisco with all the maritime cities of Asia, from the Red Sea to Yokohama. There will be a sudden waking up on both sides of the Pacific, and this city ought to if she does not, become the moneyed and commercial centre of the world.

English Railways.—Nothing more forcibly illustrates the superior condition and solid structure of the English railways than the rate of speed of some of the mail trains. The night mail from Euston Square station, London, to Perth in Scotland performs the journey—451 miles—in eleven hours and a half, or at the rate of forty miles an hour, including stoppages. The mail between New York and Washington—229 miles—goes through in eleven hours, being about half the speed of the English mails. It is evident that neither speed nor safety can be expected upon our railroads until they are rebuilt in a solid and enduring manner, many of the accidents occurring being the result of their bad condition.

The man who has been the most liberal to the poor of England is an American, and the man who proposes to spend $5,000 000 for the poor of New York is a Scotchman.

Willamette Lodge No 2, F. and A. M.— Special communication on Wednesday evening 17th inst., at 7 o'clock. Work in the M M Degree. Members and sojourning Brothers are earnestly invited to be present punctually. Per order of the W M

IMPORTANCE OF HAVING DAVIS' PAIN KILLER ALWAYS ON HAND.

Wonderful Cure of the Rev D L Brayton, Missionary in India, who was stung by a Scorpion.

Extract from his letter published in the Baptist Missionary Magazine:

For the first time since I have been in India, I have been stung by a scorpion. I went out this morning to my exercises as usual at early dawn and having occasion to use an old box on taking off the cover I put my hand on a scorpion, which immediately resented the insult by thrusting its sting into the palm of my hand. The instantaneous and severe pain which darted through the system is quite incredible, what an awful virulent pain their sting must contain! I flew to my bottle of Davis' Pain Killer, and found it to be true to its name; after a few moments' relief I saturated a small piece of sponge, bound it on my hand, and went about by exercises feeling no more particular inconvenience.

DRAKE'S PLANTATION BITTERS

Have been [illegible] keeping [illegible] hold.

[illegible]

There is nothing better to take for the Stomach's sake than PLANTATION BITTERS.

They cure Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Indigestion, Drowsiness, Headache, Liver Complaint and Rheumatism [illegible]

A good [illegible] making the first trial. No change of diet is necessary. Eat the best you can get, and all you want. Follow our directions and you will soon feel

WELL, STRONG AND HEARTY.

A great many [illegible] are being made at the Plantation Bitters by a score or two of [illegible] who have endeavored to imitate or counterfeit them. It is all of no use. The people won't be imposed upon. The Plantation Bitters are increasing in use and popularity every day and that's what's the matter. They are the same as at first, and will continue to be or we shall stop making them.

They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhœa, Cholera and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.

They are the best Bitters in the world. They make the weak strong and are exhausted nature's great restorer. The Recipe and full Circular are around each bottle. Clergymen, Merchants, and persons whose sedentary habits induce weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, liver complaint, constipation, &c, will find immediate and permanent relief in these Bitters. But above all they are recommended to weak and delicate females and mothers.

They are sold by all respectable merchants. See that each bottle has our private United States Stamp over the cork and steel plate side label.

Beware of refilled bottles. See that the stamp has not been tampered with. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon is a swindler and impostor and should be immediately reported to us.

Mustang Liniment.

OVER A MILLION DOLLARS SAVED!

Gentlemen—"I had a negro man worth $1 200 who took cold from a bad hurt in the leg and was useless for over a year. I had used everything I could hear of without benefit, until I tried the Mexican Mustang Liniment. It soon effected a permanent cure.

J. L. DOWNING

Montgomery, Ala., June 17, 1859.

"I take pleasure in recommending the Mexican Mustang Liniment as a valuable and indispensable article for Sprains, Sores, Scratches or Galls on Horses. Our men have used it for Burns, Bruises, Sores, Rheumatism, &c., and all say it acts like magic. J. W. HEWITT

"The sprain of my daughter's ankle, occasioned while skating last winter was entirely cured in one week, after she commenced using your celebrated Mustang Liniment.
Gloucester Mass. Aug 1 1865 ED SEELY

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beast than any article ever discovered. Families, livery men and planters should always have it on hand. Quick and sure it certainly is. All genuine is wrapped in steel plate engravings bearing U S Stamp of Demas Barnes & Co over the top.

An effort has been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone-plate label. Look closely!

Lyon's Katharion.

It is a most delightful Hair Dressing.
It eradicates scurf and dandruff.
It keeps the head cool and clean.
It makes the hair rich soft and glossy.
It prevents hair turning gray and falling off.
It restores hair upon prematurely bald heads.

This is just what Lyon's Katharion will do. It is pretty—it is cheap—durable. It is literally sold by the car load, and yet its almost incredible demand is daily increasing until there is hardly a country store that does not keep it or a family that does not use it.

Caution—See that the private U S Stamp of Demas Barnes & Co is over cork of each bottle. None other is genuine.

Lyon's Flea Powder

Death to Fleas.—It is well known that Lyon's genuine Magnetic Powder will perfectly destroy everything in the shape of fleas, ticks, bed bugs, roaches, &c. That it is perfect poison to the insect tribe, but entirely harmless to the human species and domestic animals. The genuine has the signature of E Lyon and the private stamp of Demas Barnes & Co. Anything else of this kind is an imitation or counterfeit. Any druggist will procure the genuine if you insist you will have no other.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities, CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeits or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned and placed on their guard against this practice.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

The Canteen

BY PRIVATE MILES O'REILLY

There are bonds of all sorts in this world of ours
Fetters of friendship and ties of flowers,
And true lovers' knots I ween
The girl and the boy are bound by a kiss
But there's never a bond, old friend, like this—
We have drunk from the same canteen!

It was sometimes water and sometimes milk
And sometimes apple jack fine as silk
But whatever the tipple has been
We shared it together in bane or bliss
And I warm to you friend when I think of this—
We have drunk from the same canteen!

The rich and the great sit down to dine
And they quaff to each other in sparkling wine
From glasses of crystal and green
But I guess in their golden potations they miss
The warmth of regard to be found in this—
We have drunk from the same canteen!

We have shared our blankets and tents together
And have marched and fought in all kinds of weather
And hungry and full we have been
Had days of battle and days of rest
But this memory I cling to and love the best—
We have drunk from the same canteen!

For when wounded I lay on the outer slope
With my blood flowing fast and but little hope
Upon which my faint spirit could lean
Oh then I remember you crawled to my side
And bleeding so fast it seemed both must have died
We drank from the same canteen!

Yankee Inquisitiveness

BY HOWARD PAUL

Hill!—poor Yankee Hill! He was the very incarnation of drollery and esprit. We loved to see his smiling, good natured phiz before the lights, for it was sure to impregnate the very atmosphere with a sense of merriment. He possessed a genius for the impersonation of Down East character which no other actor before nor since his time has approached. He was natural, captivating, easy and brilliant. With what genial unction he related a pleasantry!—with how much sparkling zest he bantered the follies of mankind! The witticisms flashed from his lips as flakes of light along the Orient. A gay, glorious fellow was he, in every sense of the expression.

His store of anecdotes seemed to be inexhaustible, and he was one of those few gifted creatures who could talk all day, and still have something left worth listening to. One never wearied of hearing him. Age did not tarnish,

——nor custom stale
His infinite variety."

His whimsical stories yet range the length and breadth of the United States as unowned oddities. They have been passed from one to another till the label of identity has fallen from them in the vortex of narration. We recognize them here and there, as one will find polished pebbles on the sea beach. What a grotesque medley his portfolio would present! Spirit of Momus! we invoke thee to assist by thy potent influence, the finding of this rare legacy!

We remember a scrap of adventure that Hill used to relate, illustrative of the spirit of inquisitiveness, so noticeable among the primitive homespun Yankees. It appears that the comedian was traveling in a stage coach, and sat next to a gawky, slab sided Vermonter, who opened the conversation with the usual platitudes touching "weather—crops—and gineral matters of intrist."

"You're traveling, I guess, Mister?" said Vermont.

"If being in a stage coach behind four fleet roans is any evidence of it, I should think I was," coolly replied Hill.

"Ya-as—you're right. Eh!"

A brief pause.

"Travelin' for you health?"

"Not exactly," responded Hill.

"Oh, then, on bizness, I reckon, eh?"

"Yes—no, that is to say, not precisely."

"E-eh! I perceive—half bizness and half pleasure"—rolling his large eyes about like bewildered bagatelle balls.

"Something in that way."

And not caring to be deluged with interrogatives, as he could see the "breed" of his friend, the comedian took from his pocket a copy of Humphrey Clinker, and soon his mind was psychologically with that notable personage.

"Umph!" grunted Vermont. "I beg your pardon, Mister, but is it fur to——?"

Hill affected not to hear him. He repeated the question.

"Don't know," replied he, without taking his eyes from the book.

"Well, should yeou think it wuz, considerin' what we've come?"

"Can't say."

Another "slight" silence.

"Like this part of the country?"

"Yes"—in a gruff tone.

"So do I"—edging still closer to Hill.

A moment's intermission.

"Yeou don't live about here—pre-haps?"

"No."

"Nuther dew I."

"Umph!"

"That's a strange coincidence."

Vermont here adjusted his cravat—a flowered velvet of a strong gamboge tint—the bow of which, terminating into a resemblance of a tipsey letter X, had imperceptibly jogged round and got under his ear. Bringing the bow back to its original position under his chin, he remarked:

"Excuse me, Mister, do you ever expect to come this way agin?"

"Have no positive knowledge," laconically replied Hill.

"I spose you don't like coach ridin'?"

"No."

"Not half so nice as steamboat or cars, is't?"

"Quite agree with you."

Here he eased off for a moment or two, and then renewed the attack. Nudging his victim, he said:

"I'm an American, I am."

"Shouldn't have taken you for a Frenchman or a Spaniard," dryly remarked the comedian.

"No? I'm glad to hear you say so. I've been told afore now that I had a real Russian mouth, and that my nose was on the Greek style, but I reckon they ain't if the truth wuz told."

What possible affinity there could exist between his mouth and Russia, unless it was its extent, would be hard to conjecture. If Greek noses are of that long sort that hasten down into a red point, then his nose was Grecian in the extreme. If not, we will avoid a rash classification of the organ, which at a glance happily reminded one of a planting shell, with which lightning-rods are dipped to guard against meteorological disasters.

Hill saw it was no use to thwart the fellow, for talk he would, "come what, come may." The words bubbled through his lips as will-o'-the-wisps swell to the surface of a marsh. The comedian laid down his book, and the Yankee's eyes sparkled in anticipation of a long, gossipy, old fashioned chat.

"You're an American, I spose?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Du you know, I thought you wuz."

"Indeed!"

"Great country this, eh?" after a moment's hesitation.

"Extraordinary country."

"Good kind of land tew be born in."

"True."

"Our mountains tower up as if they know what they were about, eh?"

"Unquestionably."

"Our rivers ain't no puddles, nuther."

"Quite right."

"And I guess our lakes would make folks look if they were hard pushed."

"To be sure."

"I'm glad you agree with me on these pints, I am"—then relapsing for a moment into a black silence, he started up with—

"What teown was you born in, if it's not an extravagant question?"

"Boston."

"Crinky, how odd—I've often been there."

"Ah, indeed!"

Pause of at least fifty five seconds.

"Dew yeou know—now don't say it's curiosity—but since we've got tew talkin, Mister, dew yeou know I should like tew know your name."

"Would you?" said the comedian, laughing.

"It runs in my head I've seen you somewhere."

"Very possible."

"And your name is—"

"Hill."

"Oh, indeed! I know a good many Hills living in Vermont, our head thresher's name is Hill, I swow! How odd! There's a goodish sprinklin' of Hills all over Vermont."

The comedian fancied for an instant, but only for an instant, that his name had "given rise" to a pun, but a glance at the hard features of his friend convinced him that the play on the word was grossly unintentional.

"Well, how very strange I should know so many of yeour name! I shouldn't wonder if I know people with yoour full name. What might yeour Christian—"

"Hill saw what was coming, and replied

"George."

"Is that a fact? Oh, you're certainly joking. Why, my name's George too. Wheeler—George Wheeler's my name."

"Oh!"

"Yes. Now you were born—"

"In Boston."

"Ya-as, 'zactly so. Boston, Massachusetts of course."

"Certainly. Boston, Massachusetts—New England—North America," said Hill who bored to death by this time with inquiries, placidly settled down in the corner of the coach and shut his eyes. Vermont was not to be thrown aside so easily, however, and contracting his sharp features—every angle of which he seemed to ask a question—he stretched his neck and said:

"'Skuse me, but what part of Boston were yeou born?"

Hill's patience evaporated at that moment, and determining to tie up in a packet every possible interrogatory replied:

"Near the Centre Church by the Old South, about 4 o'clock in the morning, in the dead of winter in Milk street."

Hill thought he had left the fellow no margin now, and judge his surprise when he leaned over and said:

"If it's not troublin' yeou too much, which side of Milk street wuz yeou born on, and what wuz the number?"

The comedian avows that after that "last stroke" he got out of the coach and pursued the balance of the journey on the box with the driver.

A Chinaman on China

A CURIOUS BOOK—THE TAEPING REBELLION

[From the N. Y. Evening Post.]

An educated Chinaman, named Lin Le, has written a book on the Taeping Rebellion in China, which is published in London by Day & Co., under the title of Ti Ping Tien Kwoh, the History of the Ti Ping Revolution. Lin Le was a rebel, and he declares that his work has been written in accordance with instructions from the Taeping leaders, who desire to present the facts of rising in such a form as to win English sympathy and correct "the evil foreign policy" of the British Government.

Among the curious passages in this book is an account of the Taeping leader—Hung siu tshuen—who is represented as having been foreordained to perform a great work. Dreams, visions and voices of angels or fiends came to him early, to the mystification of his father and relatives. While sick, as his mind was wandering, he used to run about his room, like a soldier engaged in battle. His constant cry was, "Tsan jan, tsan jan, tsan oh, tsan oh! Slay the demons, slay the demons! slay, slay; there is one, there is another. Many cannot withstand the blow of my sword!" Siu tshuen's father appealed to the magicians to cure his son of such a distemper, but in vain. The youth was destined for a wonderful career, and had to pass through a preparation of a benefitting kind. "The visions, marvelous as they were and deeply significant upon many important points," says Lin Le, "could never have led to any earthly result but through the medium of some earthly key." The key was found in Siu tshuen's conversion to Christianity, and to the conviction which came upon him "that he was appointed by divine authority to restore the world—that is China—to the worship of the true God." Lin Le adds:

"The small volumes, Good Words for Exhorting the Age, that have exercised such a wonderful effect upon a great proportion of the Chinese, through the individual acts of Hung siu tshuen, were the production of Leang Afah, one of Dr Milne's Chinese converts. Consequently it may be argued that contact with Europeans has been instrumental in producing the great Ti ping revolution, and that to Dr Milne and his convert, Leang Afah, may be attributed the honor of being agents in converting Hung siu tshuen and in originating the movement in modern Asia."

The personal adventures narrated in the book are amusing, and some of the sketches of Chinese customs have a peculiar freshness because they are the records of a native's observations. We quote Lin Le's account of

CHINESE WOMEN

The Tanka (boat) girls lead an almost aquatic life, and are actually born, live, and die on board their floating homes. Their time seems fully occupied in rowing, or sculling with a large oar over the stern of the boat, and this incessant labor makes them strong and well figured. Until married it cannot be said they are either paragons of virtue or modesty, but when married, or betrothed—that is to say, bought by a long tailed Benedict—they, at all events, seem far less amiable towards the exiled "Fan kwei" (foreign devil,) as in common with most Chinese they politely designate all foreigners. The personal charms of these first seen of the fair sex are by no means so contemptible as Europeans generally imagine. Their long and intensely black hair, brilliant and merry, though oblique, black eyes, light yellowish brown and often beautifully clear complexion, and the robust figures, constitute a charming and singular variety of feminine attraction. They are a gay, thoughtless set, these boat girls. Unfortunately, to mar what would otherwise be a very handsome face, many of them have the flattish nose, typical of South China, though the high and more European formed one is by no means uncommon. Through constant exposure to the sun, they are mostly tanned to a regular olivaster gypsey hue, and wicked little gypsies they often are, especially when making a young greenhorn, fresh from his mamma in England, pay six times the proper fare.

The Tanka girls are free in all things unconnected with their work, but, as many are purchased by aged individuals, owners of boats, they are slaves in so far as their occupation is concerned. Very different is it with their unfortunate sisters, the slaves of the washerwomen, who are bought when quite young, and trained to an evil life. It is a usual thing to see, the moment a ship is anchored, several old laundry hags, each with an attendant retinue of fascinating nymphs "taking charge" and establishing themselves in possession of all quarters of the vessel, from the skipper's cabin to the black cook's galley. Of course these little witches make sad havoc of the sailors' hearts, and generally of their clothes. It is a singular fact, but no less singular than true, that invariably upon that day the number and affection of these pretty damsels seem to increase and multiply in a surprising manner, and by the very perceptible metallic chinking when they take their departure by the gangway, it would appear that their sweetness of disposition had not been exerted unsuccessfully.

The following is an interesting description of the Taepings:

THE TAEPINGS AND THE REBELLION

So far back as 1853 the Taepings marched from Kwangsi in a zig zag but northeastern direction through the greater portion of the country to Nankin. During eight years they held an enormous extent of unsettled country stretching from the Yellow River, in the north, to Tanchow in the south, and from Chingfu, in the west, to the east coast. Their settled territory in 1861 was a very much more circumscribed district and running from the coast southwest in a very irregular shape into Hoonan. The Taepings held Nankin as their capital from the middle of the year 1853 to August, 1864. A narrow district running inland from Amoy to the banks of the Yang tse Kiang is now their only territory.

Unable to depend upon the success of the Ti ping movement (says Lin Le), the disaffected Chinese have joined other rebellions, and at this day there are many desolating the country. In the north, a great amalgamation of the Yellow River rebels (an old organization, sometimes under allegiance to the Ti ping king), or Nien fie, with a force of Ti pings, and a large body of Mohammedan rebels has taken place. The army of this league is estimated at over 300,000 men; in the summer of 1865 they defeated the Tartar Generalissimo (of Pekin campaign memory) San ko lin sin, who was afterwards killed by some country people with whom he sought a refuge—thus showing the state of feeling among the population. The northern rebels then seriously menaced Pekin itself, and at one time it was reported that they had captured the city; lately they seem to have moved more to the westward—probably to effect a junction with other revolutionists; but it is quite certain that the Imperialists are unable to subdue them. Besides the league, there are two other formidable rebellions raging in the north of China—the Mohammedan rebels, who defy the power of the government in Shen si, Shen se, Kan su and other parts of the empire. To the south of these come the "Honan filchers," a horde of more than 100 000 banditti, who maintain, as they have done for years, an independent existence in the Honan province. Away to the west, the large Tartar province of Ili, four times as large as Great Britain, has been wrested from the Imperialists by the rising of Mohammedans.

Along the western boundary general anarchy prevails; it would almost seem that as Russia advances into Central Asia, the Mohammedans were moving towards China. In the great province of Szechuan, the Ti pings, under Shih ta-kae, the I wang, or his successor are still in power. At Hankow (treaty port) in Hu peh and Kew kiang in Kiang si, the Imperialist troops lately revolted and set up the standard of rebellion. In Ngan whui serious disturbances have arisen. Further south, in Kwei chow, Yun nan and Kwang si, the Miau tze, or independent mountaineers, are steadily increasing in strength; in fact, every province in China is more or less the scene of revolution or local revolt. The Ti pings, in strong force under the Shi wang and other leaders, are making rapid progress on the borders of the provinces of Kwan tung, Kiang si and Fu keen, and the Imperialist troops seem totally unable to interfere with them.

The book is dedicated to "Le siu cheng, the Chung wang ('faithful prince'), Commander in Chief of the Ti ping forces, if he is living; if he is not, to his memory."

Artemus Ward says that as a son of temperance he believes in temperance hotels, though as a general thing they sell poorer liquor than the other sort.

Anecdotes of the Defterdar Bey

Of the cruelty of this Turkish grandee, who married a daughter of Mehemet Ali, numerous anecdotes are related in Egypt. He had at his side a tame lion, usually lying at the foot of his divan, which although mild toward its master was sufficiently ferocious to terrify his visitors. Sometimes he allowed it to worry a slave, calling it off perhaps just as it was about to kill the wretches. Similar habits were attributed to Tippoo Sultan. This savage, when governor of the delta, piqued himself on the simplicity and primitiveness of his manners and his utter freedom from European [illegible]. During the period of his command in the upper country a soldier robbed a poor woman of a little milk. The woman not foreseeing the result, laid her complaint before the Bey, who demanded her to point out the culprit. This being done, the soldier was ordered to be laid upon the ground and his body ripped open. The milk being found in his stomach, the Bey paid the complainant and dismissed her, remarking, "Had it not been found, I would have inflicted the same punishment upon you." It was the custom of this [illegible], always moved surrounded by the terror of arms, to ride abroad accompanied by a number of Mamelooks or domestic slaves, each of whom carried a thousand piastres in his girdle, that should he be compelled to fly, which considering his declared hostility to the Pacha was by no means improbable, he might still be provided with money for his immediate use. During the Syrian campaign six of these young men, dreading the effects of his ferocity, examples of which they daily beheld, made their escape and took refuge in Ibrahim's camp. Being discovered, however, they were immediately apprehended and conveyed back to Cairo. Here they were commanded to appear before their inexorable lord, in the great hall of the palace, where they found him encircled by a number of blacks, armed with drawn swords. They were not long in learning their fate. He commanded them to take every man a sabre and attack each other in his presence until five of their number should fall, promising life and a thousand sequins to the victor. The Mamelooks obeyed, ranging themselves three and three, and having been trained to the use of arms and uniting skill with courage, fought desperately, shedding their blood like water, while the Defterdar sat calmly on his divan enjoying the spectacle. At length, after a long and sanguinary struggle, one only remained the victor over his unhappy companions. Exhausted and bleeding in every limb, he raised his eyes toward his master to receive the promised pardon, but at this moment, the Bey gave the nod to one of the black slaves who stood behind the victim, and the head of the Mamelook immediately rolled along the floor. On another occasion two of his military slaves, quarreling, drew their swords in his presence, at which his anger being kindled, he commanded their heads to be struck off. The Mamalooks, however, mindful of the fate of their companions, resolved to sell their lives dearly, drew their pistols, and aiming at the head of the tyrant, were about to rid the world of such a monster, when the interposition of other of his slaves enabled him to escape into his harem. Reckless and desperate, as knowing escape impossible, the Mamalooks, now joined by several others, who all had wrongs and insults to revenge, pursued and and besieged him in his private apartments, where but for the speedy arrival of a party of soldiers from the citadel, he would have paid the forfeit of his innumerable crimes and barbarities. With the assistance he succeeded in repelling the assailants, who in their turn, were shut up and besieged in one of the turrets of the palace forming the powder magazine. Here they held out several days, fighting desperately, but, at length, finding their numbers decrease, and being entirely destitute of provisions, they set fire to the powder and blew themselves up with the tower in which they had taken refuge.

SIZE OF THE ARK.—Infidels have objected to the size of the ark—have asserted that it is quite absurd to suppose that ever there could be a vessel constructed large enough to hold all the creatures which must have been placed in it with sufficient food, it may be from six to twelve months—water for the fish, corn for the four footed animals, seed for the birds, and so on. Now we will make the admissions of the ark from the record of Moses, and calculate them on the lowest possible scale. There are two definitions given to a cubit—one that is eighteen inches. We will take it only at the lowest. Moses states that the ark was 300 cubits long. This would make it 450 feet long, or about the length of St Paul's Cathedral, London. The breadth it states to be 40 cubits; we then have it 75 feet in breadth. He states it to be 28 cubits high, so that it was 40 feet in height. The tonnage of the ark, according to computation of modern carpenters, must have been 32 000 tuns. The largest English ship of a size altogether unimaginable to those who have never seen it is 2 500 tuns burden, so the ark must have been equal to seventeen first rate ships of war, and if armed as such ships are, it would have contained beyond 18,000 men, and provisions for them for eighteen months. Buffon has asserted that all four footed animals may be reduced to 250 pairs, and the birds to a still smaller number. On calculating, therefore, we find that the ark would have held more than five times the necessary number of creatures, more than five times the required quantity of food to maintain them for twelve months.

JOSH BILLINGS ON OWLS.—Josh Billings says of owls: "Burds is God's choristers. Tew the lion he gave majesty, tew the elephant strength, tew the fox cunning, and tew the tiger deceit. But tew the burds, his pets, he gave buty and song. And none so blest as the owl. The owl is a game burd, he can whip anything that wears feathers—after dark. He is a wise burd and hoots at most things. He is a sollem burd, a cross between a Justice of the Peace and a County Supervisor. He is a stiff burd, and sits up as stiff as a exclamation. He is a luxurious burd, and feeds on spring chickens. He is a long lived burd and never was known to take death naturally. He is a hardy burd and grows tuff by bilein. He is a honest burd, and always shows a open countenance. He is a prompt burd, and satisfies at once his outstanding bill. He is a comfortable burd, and alwaz sleeps in feathers. He is an attentive burd, and during the day can alwaz be found in. He is a festive burd, and don't come home till morning. Thus the owl is a mistaken emblem of solitude and sadness; if we dig into his natur closely he is emphatically one of the boys, and belongs to the club."

A gentleman, a friend of mine, who was about to be hanged, stood upon the fatal gallows and evinced some annoyance. I clasped his hand with effusion, and said, with accents clear and silvery, as if nothing had been the matter, "Good by, John. Remember the words of our bard: 'Suffer, and be strong.'" He died without seeing my joke appreciatively, but I walked away with the consciousness that I had shown my capability for true courage.

L. JAY S. TURNEY,

HAVING LEASED THE ABOVE NAMED HOTEL is prepared to accommodate the traveling public and ONE HUNDRED REGULAR BOARDERS, in as good style as any House on the Coast. He has determined to make the "Bennett" as good as the best and better than any public house in Salem. He will soon complete some important improvements which will add greatly to its appearance and comfort, and intends to merit and hopes to receive his share of patronage.

He has secured the services of "Charley" (known to be the best cook in Salem and one of the best in the whole country) and other competent persons to manage the culinary department, and is resolved to set as good a table as can be found anywhere—not in clap trap, pomp and show, flummery and fine furniture, but in an abundant supply of the very best the market affords.

His Bar room will be kept warmed and lighted and well supplied with newspapers, periodicals and other suitable reading matter, and kept in a manner which will make it an agreeable resort.

In short, he intends making an effort to please ALL who stop at the BENNETT HOUSE. And he most respectfully requests his friends everywhere to give the old and well known stand at least one more trial before concluding they can do as well elsewhere, and promises if they are not well treated and properly cared for and at reasonable figures it will not be the fault of the public's most obedient and most humble servant,

DISEASES OF THE EYES

to call at his office and be at once restored. Surgical operations SKILLFULLY performed on the EYES for film, cataract, strabismus or cross eyes.

Below are some of the many testimonials:

This is to certify that I, John B. Jodwan, was blind for over two years, and I tried all means of a cure, and and many doctors, and all of no effect, and I spent all the means I had. Finally I had to become a county charge, and when I was taken to Dr G W Brown and stated my case to him and misfortune, he at once commenced to treat my eyes, and now I am well, and I commend all those that are suffering with diseases of the eyes to call on Dr G W Brown. The reason why I do this is to let suffering humanity know where they can be cured.

SATURDAY, Feb 10, 1866

This is to certify that my daughter was almost blind for over seven years and was doctored by other physicians without obtaining any relief, when finally I took her to Dr G W Brown, who examined her case, and at once began to give her treatment, and her sight has been entirely restored. I do this to let those who are suffering with diseases of the eyes know where they can obtain a cure. It has been three years since her eyes were cured and they are yet sound.
THOMAS LIVINGSTON

SALEM July 21 1866

This is to certify that I was blind for over four months and almost blind for one year and a half. I tried several eye doctors but received no benefit. I had almost given my case up as hopeless when fortunately I heard of Dr G W Brown, now of Salem. I was induced to try him; he performed a surgical operation on my eyes and gave me treatment. I soon began to recover and in a short time I was perfectly cured. I do this in justice to one who rescued me from a fate worse than death and also for the benefit of those who are laboring under similar afflictions that they may know where they can get relief. It is now about eight months since my eyes were cured and they still remain good. I can see to read the finest print without difficulty, and my eyes can bear the strongest light without pain.

To Soldiers Claiming Bounties

UNDER THE

EQUALIZATION BOUNTY BILL!

THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING RECENTLY RE-turned from Washington City, where he has made the proper arrangements for the collections of the Extra Bounty of $100 allowed to all soldiers enlisted after the 19th day of April 1861 for a period of not less than three years, and $50 for soldiers enlisted for a period of not less than two years.

Persons entitled to the benefits of said Bounty will find it to their interest to attend to its collection at once. Having an Agent at Washington, and personal knowledge of the mode of making collections through the Departments, I can get returns promptly.

Call with your Discharge, and two witnesses for identification, at the Publication Office of the Daily Oregonian, No 5 Washington St, Portland.
A BUSHWILER, Claim Agent.

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE PAYMENT OF BOUNTIES UNDER THE ACT TO EQUALIZE BOUNTIES, APPROVED JULY 28, 1866.

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, September 18 1866

1 All applications shall be filed within the period of six months from the 1st day of October, 1866, and before any payments are made, shall be classified by regiments, battalions, or other separate organizations, and no application filed after that period shall be settled until after the former shall have been paid.

2 No application shall be entertained unless accompanied by the original discharge of the soldier and the affidavit required by the fourteenth section of the Act, and the further affidavit that he has not received, nor is he entitled to receive from the United States, under any laws or regulations prior to the Act of July 28, 1866, more than $100 bounty for any and all military service rendered by him during the late rebellion, over and above the amount therein claimed.

3 All applications for the additional bounty authorized by this Act from surviving soldiers shall be in the form hereinafter prescribed, and the evidence of identity shall be the same as is now required, and applications from the heirs of deceased soldiers shall be in the form now required by the Treasury Department.

4 As soon as the examination of the claims of any regiment, or other independent organization shall have been properly acted upon the Paymaster General shall take the necessary steps for their prompt payment.

5 A register shall be kept in the Paymaster General's office, and also in the office of the second Auditor, of all claims presented under the law, in which the claimants will be classified by regiments, etc. If the claims be allowed, the amount of bounty paid to each will be noted, and if rejected the cause of rejection will be distinctly stated.

6 In the applications for bounty, as required by the third of these rules, the affidavit shall state each and every period of service rendered by the claimant, and also that he never served otherwise than as herein stated.

7 Organizations irregularly in the service of the United States, or called out for special purposes, as State Militia, Home Guards, etc, and not included in the general bounty laws, are not included within the meaning of the Act.

8 Soldiers enlisted for three years or during the war who were discharged by reason of the termination of the war shall be considered as having served out the period of their enlistment, and are entitled to bounty under this Act.

9 The minority of heirs claimants for bounty under this Act, must be proven to have existed at the date of its passage. Parents shall receive jointly the bounty to which they may be entitled as heirs, unless the father has abandoned the support of his family, in which case it shall be paid to the mother. Non residence in the United States shall not be a bar to the claim of heirs, who would otherwise legally inherit.

The provisions of the Act exclude from its benefits the following classes:

1 Those who, after serving the full period of their enlistment, were dishonorably discharged at its expiration.

2 Those discharged during enlistment by way of favor or punishment.

3 Those discharged on account of disability contracted in the service, but not occasioned by wounds received in the line of duty, who shall not have previously served two or three years respectively at the time of discharge.

4 Those discharged on account of disability existing at the time of their enlistment.

5 The heirs of those who have died since their discharge of wounds or disease not contracted in the service and in the line of duty.

6 The surviving soldiers and heirs of deceased soldiers who, under previous laws, have received or are entitled to receive a bounty of more than $100 from the United States.

7 The surviving soldiers, as well as the heirs of deceased soldiers, when such soldiers have bartered, sold, assigned, loaned, transferred, exchanged, or given away their final discharge papers, or any interest in the bounty provided by this or any other Act of Congress.

8 The Act of the 28th of July 1866 creates no right of inheritance beyond those vested by the law under which these heirs received or were entitled to receive the original bounty, and debars certain classes, brothers and sisters of heirs that were entitled to receive the original bounty, from any claim for the additional bounty provided by this Act.

Respectfully referred to the Attorney General for his opinion on the point whether these rules and regulations as within are in conformity with law.
EDWIN M STANTON
September 14 1866 Secretary of War

I have examined these amended regulations, and am of opinion they are in conformity with law.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, feted breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells Fargo & Co.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 616 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 252. Consultations FREE.

Prevention Better than Cure.

The newly invented Patent French Safe, a sure Preventive against Diseases and Pregnancy, sent by mail. Price $2. Address DR J F GIBBON, 616 Kearney St, cor Commercial, San Francisco. Postoffice Box 252.
